Mable Jeldy Dies In Hospital A Poison Victim

Mother Gives Daughter What She Thought a Common Remedy.

FATHER RISKS LIFE Tries To Find Anti-dote By Experiment Upon Himself.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A mother who made a mistake and her who risked his life in an effort to save their baby daughter, today made plans for the funeral of their first born.

In a quiet hospital room here Mable Jeldy, 5-months-old, died shortly after midnight a victim of poison given her by her mother through a mistake.

When the child appeared ill last night the mother gave it what she thought was a common remedy. Later when the baby grew worse, she discovered she had given it a deadly dose of acid. When efforts to get a doctor proved futile, and the father tried to find an antidote for the poison by an experiment upon himself. While the mother was trying to ease the pain of her daughter, Clarence Jeldy, stepped into an adjoining room and hastily swallowed a dose of the poison. Soon he noticed a burning sensation. He waited for further effects, and then drank a glass of soda water. This relieved the pain and he prepared to give a dose to the infant.

Soon a doctor arrived and said the proper antidote had been administered. The child would have lived, if attendants at the hospital say it could have been rendered immediately after the poison was taken.

Announce Program Outlook Meeting

Will Be Presented At the City Hall Here February 19.

By LYNN SMITH

"If I had known before I planted this crop of cotton that it was going to bring only eleven cents per pound I would not have planted the crop," said a farmer friend of mine in October 1929. How much would you give to know now what price truck crops, cotton, livestock, etc., will bring when they are ready for market this year?

The most reliable information it will be possible to give on this subject will be given out at the city hall in Hope, next Wednesday, February 19, at the Agricultural Outlook conference for Hempstead county.

Following is a tentative program for the meeting:

Morning Session 9:30-12

Purposes of the school—Lynn Smith county agent.

The cotton situation—A. P. Brodell, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The cotton situation in Hempstead County—Ralph Rounton, President of Hope Chamber of Commerce.

The cotton situation—Loy E. Rust, Agriculture.

The general business situation—C. C. Spragins, Cashier Citizens National Bank.

Afternoon Session

Fruit and Truck Crops Outlook—Sam Knox, Agricultural Extension Service.

Local Truck Situation—C. S. Lawthorp.

The Outlook of Prices of Dairy Products—O. L. McMurray, District Agent Southwest Arkansas.

Adapting the Outlook to the County.

Everyone is specially invited to attend this meeting.

FIRST PICTURE OF LINER BURNING AT NEW YORK PIER

Listing badly, with smoke and fire belching from her under-decks, the North German Lloyd liner Munchen is shown in this striking picture as she sank at her pier in the North River, at New York, shortly after completing a trans-Atlantic voyage from Bremen. A fireman was killed, five were injured and several were missing, according to early reports, after a series of explosions raked the huge vessel and ignited the inflammable shellac in the hold. Several aboard the fireboat pictured at the right were hurled overboard by the force of the blasts on the liner.

Crumpton Trial To Be Held In May

Delay Trial Because of Absence of Two Witnesses.

TEXARKANA, Feb. 14.—When the case of Alton Crumpton, charged with murder of Tom Powell in Texarkana four years ago, was called for trial at Clarksville, Tex., yesterday the state was granted a continuance until the May term because of the absence of two material witnesses. The defense filed a motion to quash the indictment and the court took this under advisement until February 22 when its ruling will be announced.

Attorneys say some defects have been discovered in the indictment which possibly may cause the dismissal of the case. The case was sent to Clarksville several weeks ago on change of venue from Bowie county.

Farm Outlook Is Given Attention

Conference Next Wednesday Noted at Local Rotary Luncheon.

The Agricultural Outlook conference which is to be held next Wednesday, February 19, at Hope city hall, was called to the attention of the Rotary club at its luncheon Friday in Hotel Barlow, by County Agent Lynn Smith.

The conference will deal particularly with agricultural prices forecast for next fall, taking up such commodities as cotton, fruit and truck and dairy products, Mr. Smith said.

Barney Hamm, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce in charge of the requirements which Hope must meet in order to obtain recognition, A new air mail route is being projected from Louisville, Ky., to Dallas, Texas, he said, and Hope has a chance to become an important point on this first air mail route in Arkansas. Mail flying is done chiefly at night, he said. The federal government constructs and maintains beacons at intervals of every 10 miles, but Hope would be expected to build its own beacon at the airport.

Hubert Dawson and a guest were visitors from the Prescott Rotary club. Ben Eastin, of the Stamps club, was also a guest, and Roy Anderson attended from the city. Roy Young entertained with two excellent solos "Sleepy Valley" and "Your Mother and My Mother."

The Rotary club endorsed a new publication, South Arkansas, which Mr. Eastin is starting for the South Arkansas Chamber of Commerce, and which is said to be receiving staunch support from South Arkansas industries and business houses.

Vice-President George Ware presided in the absence of E. F. McFadden, club president, who is recovering from influenza.

Assessors Asked To Uphold Claims

Cost of Assessors Salaries About Double the Appropriation.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A deficiency of approximately $60,000 for salaries due state tax assessors for the first and second quarters of 1930, today caused State Auditor J. Oscar Humphrey to request assessors to uphold their claims until July 1, when the next appropriation will be made available by the state legislature.

Under the 1929 appropriation of the legislature, only $65,000 was available for salaries of tax assessors during the two years period of 1929 and 1930, and 1930 and 1931.

Auditor Humphrey said today the cost of salaries during these two years were about double the appropriation.

Deep Blue Session of Court Held By Judge in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 14.—Wheeler, said the trumpet, and squeegee said the saxophone.

The strains of the "Lonesome Mountain Blues" came unquestionably from the United States District Court room.

Employees of the federal building converged on the courtroom, while the "Lonesome Mountain Blues" gave way before "Snake Blues," "Aunt Dinah Blues," "Back Alley Blues," "Happy Blues" and other soul-stirring melodies.

Federal building attaches peered through the courtroom door and saw Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley listening attentively to a squeaking portable phonograph on the bench before him. The judge was hearing evidence in a music copyright piracy case.

Record Crowd At Bridge Benefit

500 Women Attend Public Event in Saenger Theater Thursday.

More than 500 women attended the bridge party of the Business and Professional Women's club Thursday afternoon at the Saenger theatre.

It was one of the most successful events in the history of local clubs, and prepares Hope for the forthcoming visit of the state convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs which will be held Saturday and Sunday, February 22 and 23. The Hope club raised sufficient funds Thursday, with the help of Hope and Blevins merchants, to defray the expense of the state convention.

Merchants awarded nearly 80 prizes and every one of the 500 guests received some kind of token from this largest indoor party ever held in Hope. The entire mezzanine floor and foyer of the big Saenger theatre was crowded with bridge tables, and Manager Matt Press turned the entire resources of the local Public organization over to those in charge of the day's program.

The theatre matinee was suspended, but tickets to the bridge party were also recognized as theatre admissions at the regular performance Thursday night.

Prizes awarded in collaboration with local business houses were as follows:

Mrs. Lex Holmes, 1 case Pratt-Low fruits, Ritchie Grocer Co.

Mrs. S. Boatner, 1 bridge set, Stewart's Jewelry store.

Edgar Cargile, 1 cation cigarettes, Webb's Newsstand.

Mrs. Roy C. Wood, 1 lamp, Bacon Electrical Shop.

Forest Supervisor Dies At Hot Springs

End Comes To R. H. Charlton After Injuries In Accident.

HOT SPRINGS, Feb. 14.—(AP)—R. H. Charlton, supervisor of the Ouachita National forest and for 24 years a supervisor of National forestry in different parts of the United States, died at a hospital here late yesterday after suffering from injuries which he received in an automobile accident at Huntington, Tenn., last Friday. He was 51 years old.

Charlton was one of the oldest men in the forestry service entering this profession soon after his graduation from Cornell University more than a quarter of a century ago.

Definite funeral arrangements have not been made.

Founders Day To Be Observed

Ouachita College Will Observe Birthday of J. W. Conger.

ARKADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—Founders' Day will be observed at Ouachita College on February 20, the birthday of the late Dr. J. W. Conger, first president of the school, who served in that capacity from its founding through its twenty-first year. The announcement was given out at the college today by President Charles D. Johnson. The chapel period on February 20 will be devoted exclusively to a program dedicated to Dr. Conger. Special sacred music will be furnished by the Ouachita R. O. T. C. band and several conservatory students.

Several addresses will be made by former friends and acquaintances of Dr. Conger. The chief address probably will be delivered by Judge W. E. Atkinson of Conway, former attorney general of the state. Judge Atkinson was a member of the original board of Trustees. He formerly lived at Little Rock and at Clarksville.

Arrangements are being made to broadcast the same program over KTHS, Hot Springs, between 3 and 4 on the afternoon of February 20.

Auto Wrecker Deftly Lifts Cow From Well

ST. JOE, Feb. 14.—The wrecker car of Jasper was called on a rather unusual mission this week. A call was received from the R. S. Pruitt farm near there and a fast run was made. The car was directed to an old well on the place and when blocks and tackle were unloaded it was found that it was not a "fiver" that had fallen into the well. Instead it was a milk cow.

However, the wrecker lifted the cow out and it was found the only injury sustained was one broken rib. The cow had been in the old well two hours.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Percy C. Henry, Jr., pilot of a Curtis-Wright plane service ship was killed and his passenger W. C. Glose, said to be a vice president of the Philadelphia Airport Development Construction company, was fatally injured when their plane crashed near here today.

The plane tipped over after making a forced landing.

Statements Made Killing of Youth

Each of Two Men Held, Declare Other Man Slayed Boy.

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Four-year-old Melvin Horst, hunted since his disappearance nearly 14 months ago, who was slain by one or two men at a drinking party, according to a statement attributed to them.

Special prosecutor Walter Mougey announced today that Earl Conald, 42, a railroad brakeman and Charles Hanna, of Wooster, made sworn statements that each declared the other man killed the child.

Hanna signed a statement that Conald lured the boy into a barn where he was killed. Conald declared that Hanna took the boy into the barn and then cried "my God, I believe I have killed him." Neither told of what became of the boy. Conald confessed today that he had been drinking too much to remember what happened.

Search for the boy's body is still underway the prosecutor announced and if the body is not found, charges of manslaughter or child stealing will be placed against Conald and Hanna.

Hempstead Moves Forward

THE United States Department of Agriculture in its eight annual summary of the financial standing of Arkansas farmers, pays high tribute to Hempstead county.

This analysis of 1929, completed last month, singles out our county as one of three which led the western half of the state in economic recovery. In our own district, No. 7, the federal report ranks Hempstead county first.

Here are the two high-lights of the report:

"Taking the state as a whole, if a line is drawn from the northwest corner of Randolph county to Magnolia, in Columbia county, it will in a general way divide the counties which have made improvement from those which have not made improvement. With one or two exceptions, those east of the line show a considerably better condition of the farmers financially than a year ago and those west of the line, with three or four exceptions such as Clark, Hempstead and Boone counties, show a standing even or retrogression from the condition of a year ago."

And: "District No. 7, Southwest Arkansas, consists of Hempstead, Howard, Lafayette, Little River, Miller, Montgomery, Pike and Sevier counties. Hempstead shows an improvement, the other counties either a standstill or decline."

This is a substantial gain for the cause of improved, diversified farming. Hempstead may thank her dairy program, her watermelon industry and all the truck crops and poultry enterprises which have helped to bring about this recognition for the cash farmer.

The federal report is final and unqualified. It will be read by every wholesaler and banker who does business, or expects to do business, with the merchants and farmers of this section. Those who ask of what benefit to a city is a farm program should read the following paragraph from the federal bulletin:

"These surveys have been made in January of each year. The data has been furnished by bankers in reply to questionnaires submitted by the statistician. It should be of special interest to distributors, jobbers, bankers and business men in general in determining selection of sales territory, in establishing credits, and making plans for expansion or contraction of business."

Hempstead county farmers helped make this a better section to live in, last year. But that isn't all. They helped make this a better section to do business in.

The Turk Gets His A B C's

FREDERICK KUH, noted American newspaper man now in Europe tells an interesting story of what happened in Turkey when Mustapha Kemal ordered the old Arabic script abolished, and replaced it with our alphabet.

The change was made December 1, 1928. What happened to the Turkish newspapers is described by Mr. Kuh, writing in News, published by The United Press:

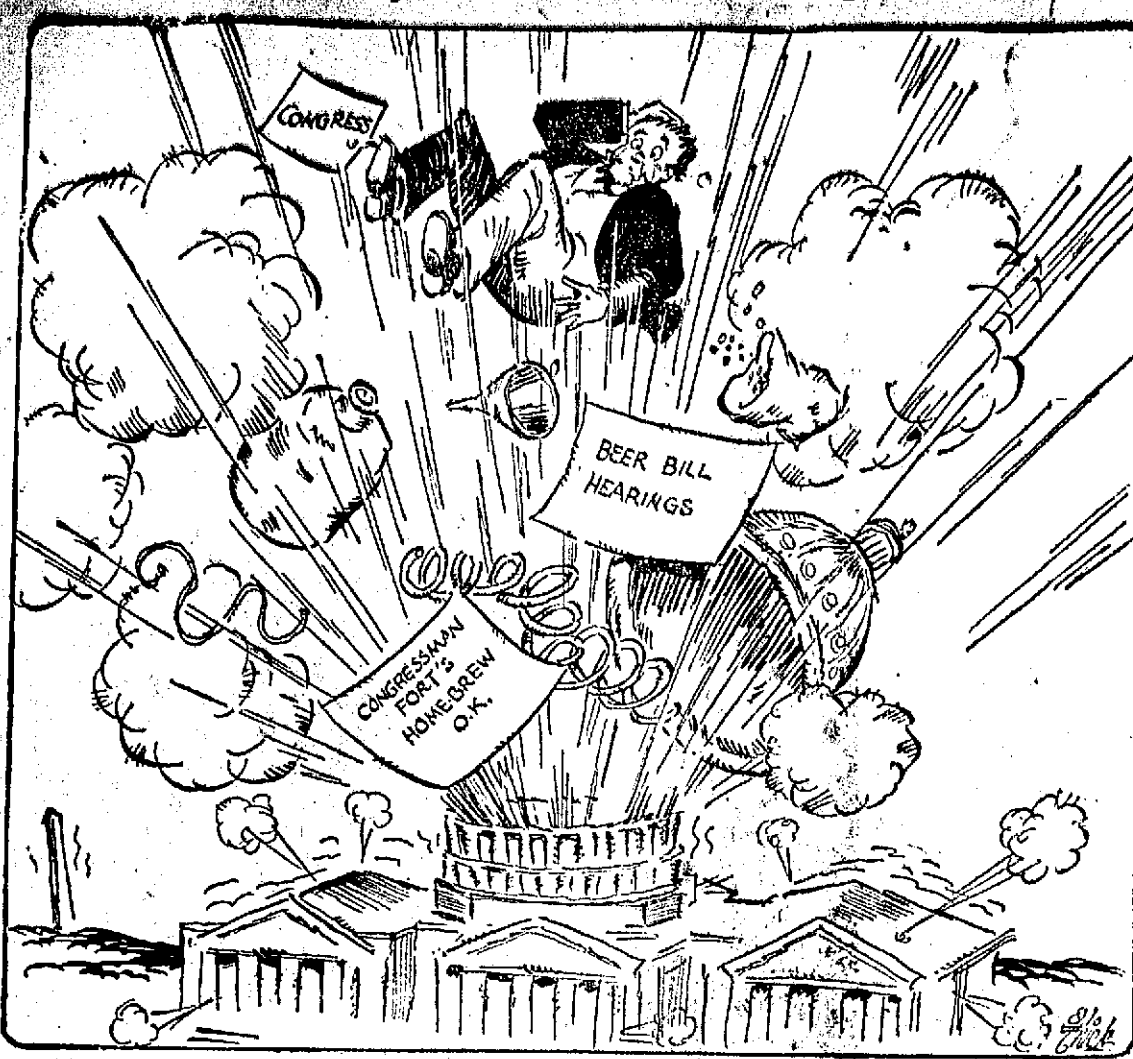

"The philologic operation succeeded, but the journalistic patient nearly died. . . . During the first day or two after the Latin invasion, newspaper circulations slumped but slightly. Perhaps many readers had forgotten that they could no longer decipher their newspapers, while others bought them as curiosities.

"Then came the blow. It staggered the editors. During the first month of the alphabetical dictatorship, a well-known Constantinople newspaper, widely read, sold 400 copies a day. All newspaper circulations fell with a thud.

"It is extremely difficult to ascertain the exact depth of this plunge. Turkish editors concealed their circulation slump like a Western speculator his stock market losses. To ask a Turkish journalist the circulation figures of his newspaper is like requesting a stranger to tell you his income.

"There was certainly grumbling and cursing among the victim newspapers, but the cooler editors realized that the inauguration of the new alphabet was not only one of the most daring, but also one of the most effective strokes to push Turkey out of the mediaeval mire."

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—When the current tumult and shouting over prohibition die down, Washington, technically known as the District of Columbia, expects to find itself the sacrificial goat.

Votable and voiceless in the administration of their own civil affairs, the nearly 600,000 persons who live here are already looking forward to the days next fall when members of Congress will return to their own guzzling constituencies and boast bravely of how they have dried up the national capital. Some of these voters, though by no means all, will take a few swigs from a jug every time they go into conference with their local politicians.

Plan Stiff Liquor Code
They're planning to make an example of Washington, and few doubt that the city will be given a stiff local enforcement code likely to make liquor here scarcer and more expensive. It will be tough on some members of Congress, of course, but conditions here have become more and more of a national scandal. Not that Washington is more lawless as regards prohibition than most cities of its size, but being the capital of the United States the extent of the drinking among its residents gives President Hoover and other dyes a sickening sensation every time they think of it.

If only this seat of enforcement could be dried up, comparatively speaking, it would be much easier to imagine that the law was being enforced over the rest of the country. This is the one place where Congress and the president have unlimited authority. They run the town without help or interference and are responsible for conditions.

Howell Really Dry
Senator Robert Beecher Howell of Nebraska has introduced the bill designed, as someone says, to make D. C. stand for Dry City. Senator Howell is not up for re-election this year, he is personally dry and by no means one of the congressional windbags who are forever hollering about the iniquity of the District in order to attract attention to themselves. But he had an argument with President Hoover some time back. After he had charged that the town was wet, the president, in effect, asked him to produce some evidence or keep quiet. Apparently Howell produced, for Hoover recently recommended an enforcement code for Washington in his message to Congress covering the recommendations of the Wickersham committee. Howell then produced his bill.

The Howell bill has become known as the "home-raid bill" because its most drastic provision would permit the police to raid any home where a bootlegger had delivered liquor. Howell says this section is necessary if Washington is really to be made dry. The bill would also give the 1300 Washington policemen the powers of prohibition agents, would permit police court judges as well as U. S. commissioners to issue search warrants, would create a rotating $2000 fund to pay informers for evidence against bootleggers, would severely punish policemen who failed to enforce the law and would put the burden of proof on the owner whenever liquor was seized instead of making the enforcers prove the illegality of its acquisition as now.

Liquor Still Available

General belief is that the "home raid" part will be knocked out. Attorney-General Mitchell is against it, and so is Senator Borah.

The law as finally passed seems bound to be effective in some respect. Drys believe it will decrease drinking here, and even the wets say liquor will be much more expensive because the bootleggers will have to pay more graft to more policemen. Meanwhile, however, gin bucks are selling in Washington speakies at 25 cents a glass, which is as cheap as they come anywhere.

Steady Profits From Diversified Farming

Diversified farming is a plan or system of farming which brings in a source of income from as many different branches of farm operation as possible. Thus, the farmer does not have to rely upon any one source of income for his profit.

Mrs. Riley Lewallen has the following report of her success with turkeys.

56 Turkeys sold for ..... $255.55
or $4.56 per turkey

Feed cost ..... 68.41

Net profit ..... $187.14

Mrs. Lewallen was assisted by the Home Demonstration Agent in this project.

Just another illustration of the method Hempstead county farmers use to increase their yearly profits; a movement which will bring great prosperity to all our people.

more back, caused a ripple in Hope's social circles. The spacious foyer and beautiful parlors of the theatre formed a lovely backdrop for the forty tables arranged for the game. The tallies giving the rules for the game with the Valentine season, and the score pads were very cleverly arranged announcing the coming of wonderful attractions at the Saenger, and giving a list of the very generous prizes donated by Hope and Blevins spring costumes of the players added much to the beauty and charm of the occasion. The guests were most on West Fulton street. The rooms were gaily decorated with the Valen-suggestive of the season were enjoyed. At the close of the evening the guests were invited into the dining room, where a most tempting two dining table was centered with lovely red flowers, and the Valentine motif was observed in the place cards and card rooms which were arranged for five tables, with the Valentine motif still further observed in the pencils, tallies and score pads. Favors for high score went to Mr. and Mrs.

presented with lovely gifts of remembrance. After a series of pleasant games, the hostess served a delicious salad plate.

A most delightful class party of the Senior High school was given last evening at the home of Miss Mary Evans on South Hervey street. Beautiful Valentine decorations brightened the rooms and Valentine games and contests were played during the evening. Assisting the hostess in receiving and caring for her guests, were her mother, Mrs. C. R. Evans and Misses Almond, Clark and Mrs.

faculty. Delicious refreshments, in keeping with the Valentine motif were served at the close of the evening.

DEAR FRIENDS:

A Ladies Felt hat came in the other day. It had seen hard service and looked the part.
But when it was ready for delivery, it looked like a new one.
That customer will get another year's service for the price of cleaning fair enough!
We've been doing quite a lot of ladies hat work lately. Nobody can afford to wear a dirty hat, and some folks feel that they can't afford to buy a new one.
The moral is plain. Call 385 and say you want your old hat cleaned. Mr. Moses and his crew of helpers will do the rest.

Some Cantillon Stories

JOHN CANTILLON died the other day in Hickman, Kentucky. He was a man who knew his way around a horse, and he was a man who knew his way around a horse.

That was the story of Comiskey and Cantillon, in the days when Cantillon was an American League umpire. It was legendary that the White Sox game was a tough portal to pass. Passes were not tossed about by Mr. Comiskey with what you would call utter abandon. Once Cantillon came to the gate with some friends and requested that he be allowed to pass. This was against the rules, and a message had to be sent to Mr. Comiskey in the club box, upstairs over the gates.

Comiskey didn't keep Joe and his friends waiting, however. Shouting down the stairway, he ordered the gatekeeper to admit Cantillon and his company. The command went something like this:

"An umpire like Cantillon has two friends in Chicago, by all means let 'em in!"

The Retort Courteous

BUT in every other story of Cantillon, or "Cantillyon" as the name was pronounced by ball players, Joe always had the last word, and often it was a word that bit. Jack Sheridan and Billy Evans were umpiring a game in Washington when Joe was managing the Senators. Cantillon was taking quite a few picks on Mr. Sheridan's decisions. This was after Cantillon had spent some years as an umpire himself. Sheridan listened to his cracks for a while and finally came back with:

"Say, you were an umpire once, years ago."

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

JOHNNY McHUGH, veteran starter of athletic meets, has fired 200,000 blank cartridges, and never fired a bullet, either, but several times, gathered about a boxing arena, have felt that a couple of bullets would do some people a lot of good. Loren Murchison, the former sprinter, is manufacturing and selling medals. The Pirates train in California, but Barney Dreyfuss spends his winters in Florida. Pitcher Rip Collins planned to become a veterinarian when he went to Texas A. and M. 13 years ago. His practice has been restricted to attending an occasional charity horse. . . . he never played baseball at college. . . . he never has played a game of cards.

yourself. How did you happen to quit?"

And Joe's reply was: "I was a good umpire, too. But when I went blind I got another job."

He Had a Strike Ball

ONCE when Joe was managing the Senators, he told the other players that a certain rookie pitcher was coming from the west for a tryout with the club. "Wait till you see him," said Joe. "He throws nothing but strikes." In that case Joe hit upon a great truth. The kid from the west was Walter Johnson—and he threw nothing but strikes for twenty years.

Bobcats Defeat Stamps Hi School

Winners in Two Games Played at the Armory Yesterday.

BY CHAS. REYNOLSON

Hope Bobcats defeated Stamps Yellow Jackets in two basketball games yesterday afternoon and night. The score for the afternoon game was 24-23. Bill Wray of Hope scored 18 points and was the high point man. John Tinsley played a good game at guard. Moore and Galloway were stars for Stamps.

The night game was 10-8 with Wray, Tinsley and Harvell starting for Hope and Galloway, Rodgers and Moore for Stamps.

During the game Rev. Harmon of the First Christian church, with the help of school boys handed each fan a tag on which was printed: "Beat 'em Bobcats, we're for you."

In the girls game between Piney Grove and Spring Hill the latter won 9-5. Washington defeated Spring Hill 21-11. Piggly-Wiggly was defeated by Columbus 16-12.

Henderson Coach Seeks Ole Miss Job

"Bo" Roland of Reddies May Succeed Homer Hazel As Coach.

OXFORD, Miss., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Six applicants for head coach at University of Mississippi to succeed Homer Hazel, resigned, were named yesterday by the College Athletic Council as still in negotiations for the position from among more than 30 applicants. They are: A. J. Bergman, assistant football and head baseball coach at University of Minnesota; Jack Crangle, assistant football coach and head baseball coach at University of Missouri; Ed J. Walger, assistant of Leland Stanford and former assistant at the University of Iowa; Tom Lamont, head coach and director at Loyola University of Chicago; J. H. Roland, head coach at Henderson State Teachers College of Arkansas; and Gerald C. Mann, assistant coach at Southern Methodist University.

Sophomore High Jumper Eyes Third World Mark

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Bert Nelson, Butler University sophomore, is creeping closer to the seven feet which he has set as his goal in the high jump.

Nelson tied the interscholastic mark of 6 feet 3 5/8 inches when he was at Hyde Park high school, Chicago. Last year he broke the Junior A. A. U. mark at Denver by soaring over the bar at 6 feet 4 7/8 inches.

This winter in a dual meet with Notre Dame, Nelson leaped 6 feet 6 3/4 inches, a quarter of a ninth higher than the world's indoor record made by Harold Osborne in 1925.

Nelson honestly expects to jump 7 feet before he lays aside his spikes. He is 21. The outdoor record is 6 feet 8 1/4 inches, held by Osborne.

The Butler jumper has a style somewhat his own. He runs straight at the bar, using a scissor roll with a high kick. Most high jumpers now use a side jump, ending with the so-called western roll from the side.

Nelson worked out his own style, and Hermon Phillips, Butler coach, helped him perfect it.

Making the United States Olympic team in 1932 is another ambition of the young jumper. His father a distance runner was with the Swedish team at the 1930 Olympiad.

Nelson is working his way through college, and expects to do newspaper work. He is five feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 148 pounds.

She has been arrested in the United States for dispensing birth control literature.

Rattlesnake Causes Ruth To Leave Hunt

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Babe Ruth cut his quail hunting trip short Wednesday. It was learned today, after he came within several inches of being attacked by a rattlesnake 80 miles north of here.

Accompanied by Benny Benough, catcher; George Pipgras, pitcher, and Johnny Nee, scout of the New York Americans, the foursome had bagged an even dozen quail when Ruth stepped within striking distance of the curled rattler.

Babe heard the snake's warning, but before getting out of range, Pip-

Central League Slugger Brings Joy To The Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—(AP)—There probably never will be another Chuck Klein, but the Philadelphia Nationals believe they have uncovered a sort of junior Klein in outfielder Tripp Sigman, late of the Central league.

You know Chuck Klein is the big, robust boy who cost the Phillies $750 one season and then proceeded the next season to hit like he had cost $75,000. Chuck, in his first year up from the Three-I League, led the National league in home runs.

Perhaps one reason the Phillies predict great things for Sigman is that he comes from the territory made famous by Chuck the clouter. Sigman is a product of the Central league, a circuit adjoining the Three-I league.

Sigman, who is 26, hit 41 home runs for the Canton, O., club in 1929 and then came up to Philadelphia to finish the season. It was what he did in the ten concluding games that put his

Long Shot Jimmy Wears Spectacles

Is Known As Only Jockey of Prominence Using Specs While Riding.

MIAMI, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Long Shot Jimmy McCoy, who has put many a winner under the wire at Dixie tracks, thinks glasses aren't such bad stuff for jockeys.

Jimmy, who earned the "long shot" title when he piloted Rock Candy home a winner at New Orleans to pay $452.40 for a $2 ticket, is known as the only jockey of prominence who wears specs while riding.

He wears them as a precautionary measure.

"Eight years ago," he relates, "I suffered an eye injury and spent two weeks in a dark room recovering. Glasses kept me in the racing game."

"I was riding a horse named Secret Greeting. We were up in the thick of the field when something cracked me in the left eye. I woke up with gras' hound dog jumped at the reptile as it struck at Babe, and received the snake's fangs in its leg.

Whirling around as he leaped, Ruth fired, blowing off the snake's head. The dog sank to the ground and Pipgras applied a solution of anti-snake bite serum.

An Attractive House with Sunny Rooms

House No. 118 Designed by Frank A. Spangenberg and Earl Martin Courtesy, American Face Brick Association

HERE has been much discussion about the economy of building the square house over the L-shaped house, and there is little doubt that the square house can be built more economically. But when the L-shaped house is well planned the difference in cost is not excessive, and many home-builders gladly pay the difference to get the advantages which the L-shaped house offers.

The house above illustrated has these features. Notice how the living room and dining room and two of the bedrooms on the second floor have windows on three sides, thus assuring plenty of sunlight and free circulation of air throughout the house. The cheerfulness imparted by such an arrangement is difficult to measure in dollars and cents.

Comfort, convenience and attractiveness one wants in his home, and it is always well in planning a house to bear in mind that a few hundred dollars well spent in getting what one wants may be returned many times over.

Economy and skimping are two entirely different matters. Many things in connection with building that seem economical at the start turn out costly, and many things we think we cannot afford turn out to be the most economical.

The experience of the past is teaching many home-builders that first cost is not the vital consideration in building, but that slow depreciation, low repair bills, lower insurance rates and reduced fuel bills really decide the soundness of the home-building investment.

All this is a bit beside a discussion of this particular house, but we shall not see a very great improvement in American homes until the American people learn the fundamentals of home-building economies.

The architects of this house have combined a pleasing and interesting exterior with a well-planned interior. The decorative treatment of the corners, windows and doorway all add to the charm of the face brick walls, while the mass of the house is in good scale and proportion.

The rooms on both floors are comfortably large and conveniently arranged. The overall dimensions of the house are 32 feet by 38 feet.

Chicagoans Still Ponder Craze Valentine of 1929

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(AP)—One year ago today, February 14, while Chicago was celebrating its Valentine's day massacre.

Seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang were killed in a machine gun fire in a Clark street garage to darken the day set aside for exchanging tokens of affection.

The slayings have taken the mystery out of the crime but they haven't found the men who pulled the triggers.

They know, say the investigators, who the men were killed and who killed them. All that remains is to identify the hands that did it.

The authorities even say the two machine guns found in Fred Burke's bungalow near St. Joseph, Mich. were used in the slaying. A coroner's jury decided Burke, known as a bandit and gunman, should be accused of the murder.

Burke, living quietly near St. Joseph, was brought into the case after he killed a traffic officer. He escaped.

Hired gunmen killed the Moran followers, possibly, the investigators reasoned, because the gangsters had been hijacking transports of booze. The name of Al Capone, designated gang boss rival of Moran, has been freely mentioned in the investigation. But Capone, in jail at Philadelphia, said he was out of the "racket." Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, coroner gained a step in the case when two wealthy manufacturers, Bert Massee and Walter E. Olson, serving on his coroner's jury, put up the money to hire Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert.

Goddard eventually found that bullets from Burke's machine guns bore the same markings as some taken from the dead gangsters. Further, they were like bullets that killed Frankie Yale, Brooklyn gang chief.

Two men were arrested for the killing. "Handsome" Jack McGurn never was tried, the state finally dismissing the charge. Jack Scalisi was slain before he could be tried.

Gilbert and Garbo Star in Grand Picture

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in "A Woman of Affairs," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture from a Michael Arlen story of London's Mayfair will open at the New Grand theatre Saturday.

To support the two stars in their screen reunion, a cast was selected which includes Lewis Stone, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, John Mack Brown and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Clarence Brown, who directed them in their first venture together, "Flesh and the Devil," also directed them in this picture.

MENA, Feb. 14.—Charged with placing an obstruction on the tracks of the Kansas City Southern railroad, recently near Acorn, and causing a derailment of an engine, Royce Nichols, Mena youth, was arrested by Chief of Police Salyers, Nichols waived examination in Justice Smith's court and was bound over to await action by the April Grand Jury.

Mules, Left Bogged In Mud Over Night, Die

STAMPS, Feb. 14.—Frank Robinson, negro youth, was hauling wood with a borrowed team of mules belonging to George Austin, an older negro, when the team and wagon became bogged in mud and water. The driver, with some other negroes tried to get them out without success.

Not being able to get them out, the driver went home and left team and wagon in the mire over night without notifying the owner.

The next morning the negro youth returned to where he left the team and found both mules dead. It is believed that the cold water and mud so chilled them as to cause their death.

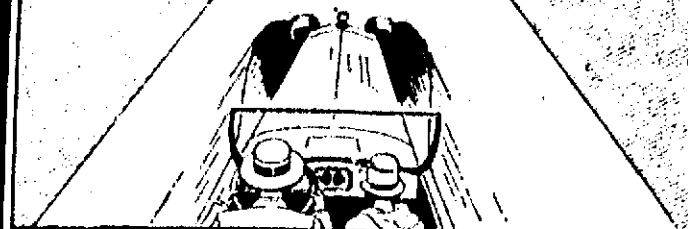

Austin had Robinson arrested and tried in a justice's court on a charge of cruelty to animals. Realizing that the youth was without means to pay a heavy fine the court decided the only thing to do was to fix his punishment at a small fine of $5 and costs.

Behold the Stranger!

A STRANGER moves to your neighborhood. You observe him tolerantly, but with no immediate display of interest. You are an established resident, getting along very nicely before he came.

But you do not avoid him. For reasons not entirely unselfish you wait for him to reveal himself. Possibly he may add something to your social and business life. Possibly he will take a highly respected place in the community. He may even become one of your intimates. It is up to him.

So you note his manners, talk with him and form an opinion. If he comes up to your requirements, you accept him, and often he proves a welcome addition to your group of friends.

It is with exactly the same attitude that the intelligent newspaper reader regards the advertisements of products new to him. These strangers may add something to his civilized enjoyment. They may contribute to his comfort, safety—even his success. In many ways they may prove valuable. Certainly it is wise to give them careful consideration.

Read the advertisements in the daily newspapers. They may be the means of introducing you to products that will take important places in your life. And every day they will give you information that enables you to buy intelligently and make your money go farther.
